HORNER'S PROGRAM MEETS ANOTHER SETBACK

CONNECTICUT, N. HAMPSHIRE, IOWA ARE WET

Each Cast Convincing Vote For Repeal In Tuesday's Polls

BULLETIN

Des Moines, Ia., June 21—(AP)—Latest tabulations on the special election yesterday this morning showed: 2320 precincts out of 2435, for repeal 370,073; against repeal 243,365. The tabulation includes complete votes from 78 counties.

(By The Associated Press.)

Long-dry Iowa, with Connecticut and New Hampshire, today brought to 14 the states which in unbroken succession have voted to knock the Eighteenth Amendment out of the Constitution.

The Hawkeye state's swing away from the posiiton she had maintained for nearly two decades left drys fixing their hope for a halt in the parade on Alabama and Arkansas, both voting July 18.

In the doubtful column when the balloting began, Iowa brought in a substantial majority for the repeal amendment, even though it was not as big that that in Connecticut and New Hampshire. But with 611,000 votes in, and only 130 precincts missing, her count was 368,961 for repeal and 242,612 against. That meant she had instructed all of her 99 delegates to the state convention July 10 to vote for repeal.

No Question In East

From the start there had been no question about what New Hampshire and Connecticut would do. The former, with a light ballot and only one small town missing, voted 75,969 to 30,227 for repeal.

In like fashion Connecticut gave a 6 to 1 majority to the twenty-first amendment, which repeals the Eighteenth. Her final unofficial total was 236,915 for repeal and 35,349 against.

With these three out of the way, Alabama and Arkansas provided the next major battleground. The pros and the antis were concentrating on them, even though California and West Virginia do vote earlier, on June 27.

Drys figure that if they can hold two states this year, the question will be put over until 1934, when their chances will be better. Wets would like to win both Alabama and Arkansas, but agree that it will be close.

Voting Dates Set

After these will come Tennessee, July 20; Oregon, July 21; Texas, August 26; Washington, August 29; Vermont, September 5; Maine, September 11; Maryland and Minnesota, September 12; Idaho and New Mexico, Sept. 19; Arizona, October 3; North Carolina, Ohio,

Dangerous Play Of Small Boys Ended

Sheriff Fred Richardson put a stop to the dangerous activities of two small boys who yesterday afternoon secreted themselves beneath the Illinois Central overhead bridge south of Dixon on state highway, route 89 and were shooting stones from sling shots at cars passing over the structure. The sheriff was returning to Dixon from Lewistown and when his car passed over the bridge, a stone whizzed past his face. The Sheriff stopped and investigated, finding two small boys whose sling shots were confiscated, their names taken, but no arrests were made after the Sheriff had explained the danger of their play.

RAILROADS MAY NOT INSIST ON SLASH IN WAGES

Indications Managers May Yield To Eastman Are Seen

Washington, June 21—(AP)—Indications were seen here today that railroad managements will yield their insistence on a wage reduction for their employes to the administration request for a delay.

Although a complete backdown on the part of the railroad managers was not expected, the feeling was expressed that they will at least yield to the extent of waiving the 12½ per cent additional reduction which they notified the union chiefs last week would become effective November 1.

Probabilities appeared to be that the suggestion for maintenance of the present status, advanced yesterday by Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation and administration railroad spokesman, will be accepted.

One of the questions discussed at today's conference between Eastman and the management committee of the carriers was whether the status quo shall be maintained for six months from November 1.

The present agreement under which the railroad employes are working expires November 1.

Under this a cut of ten per cent in wages became effective 18 months ago but unless something is done they automatically revert to the old and higher wage scale.

The management committee met in executive session immediately after conferring with Eastman to discuss the situation and to endeavor to reach some proposal the coordinator can make to railroad labor chiefs.

Neither the managers nor railroad labor heads would discuss the situation, asserting all information on the conferences must come from Eastman.

LOWELL PK. BATH HOUSE FEES MET COUNCIL PROTEST

Will Seek Abolition Of Practice: Sprinklers Are Hauled Out

The city council last evening renewed agitation against the Park Board's stand in charging children ten cents for bath house privileges at the Lowell Park beach. Commissioner George Campbell introduced the subject and every member of the council added his opinion which was unanimously adverse to the charge. It was stated that under present conditions many parents were unable to pay ten cents apiece for the privilege of allowing their children to bathe at the beach. It was suggested that the city contribute toward the salary of the life guard at the beach to bring about a change in the park rules and the Park Board members are to be interviewed during the week with a view of making some change.

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler, newest member of the city commission termed the practice of charging children for the privilege of bathing "ridiculous."

"Lowell park is a public park and Rock river is also free and it is nothing short of ridiculous that patrons going to the park with their own bathing suits be charged ten cents to bathe in the river. It is even more ridiculous that children be required to pay ten cents for the bathing privilege."

Other members of the council voiced their objections to the practice and it was decided to confer with the Park Board members this week.

To Haul Out Sprinklers

Commissioner Campbell also suggested that the city-owned sprinklers which were used last summer throughout the city to provide cooling showers for children, be brought into use and the council voted to instruct Fire Chief William Mitchell to arrange for their operation.

Commissioner John Loftus informed the council that the Illinois railroad crossings at Forrest, North Dement and Squires avenues on the north side and Seventh street on the south side were in a bad condition. The street controlled by the railroad company east of its tracks on Seventh street is also in need of repair, the commissioner stated and the mayor was asked to communicate with the proper officials at once.

Property owners residing on Fifth street from Highland to Crawford avenues, presented a petition to the council, requesting the improvement of the street under the federal aid plan ,the government to pay 30 per cent of the cost of the proposed improvement. The city engineer was instructed to prepare specifications for the improvements.

Four applications for soft drink licenses were granted by the council and the regular semi-monthly bills were ordered paid.

Volpe Is A Man Without Country

CHICAGO—Tony (Mops) Volpe was literaly "a man without a country" when the Italian Consul General, Giuseppe Castruccio, said the Chicago hoodlum was not a citizen of Italy, in reply to the government's request for an Italian certificate of acceptance in order to deport him. Castruccio pointed out that Volpe was born in Argentina and that he forfeited his Italian citizenship when he applied for his first papers in the United States.

A. C. Gossman, official reporter of the Lee County Circuit Court for many years, today announced his retirement from that position, effective July 1. During his tenure of the office Mr. Gossman has become known as one of the most expert reporters in the Illinois courts, and his decision to retire from active reporting will be regretted by both bench and bar. He has accepted the position of secretary to Judge Harry Edwards, Justice of the Appellate Court, and will assume the duties of that office on July 1st.

Judge Edwards has appointed, as Mr. Gossman's successor, Mrs. Anna M. Moore of this city. Mrs. Moore is a practicing attorney, and has had much practical experience in court reporting, having been official reporter of the county court for a number of years, and is well qualified for her new position.

CHECK FOR MRS. M'CORMICK FIGURES IN INQUIRY

Issued to Former Congresswoman's Chicago Manager

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—The Evening American, delving into the investigation of alleged bloated payrolls under the former West Park Board of Chicago, stated today it had found a check for $57,000 was issued to W. R. James, former board president, by a Rockford bank in behalf of Ruth Hanna McCormick in 1930.

At that time the former Congresswoman was a candidate for the U. S. Senate in the Republican primaries, opposing Senator Charles S. Deneen.

James, then newly appointed head of the West Parks, was Mrs. McCormick's Chicago campaign manager. The American said it appeared from the amount of the withdrawals from James' bank accounts that the money was distributed among the 50 Chicago wards.

Thomas J. Courtney, State's Attorney, has begun an investigation of the former payroll list of the Park Commission, asserting that former employes who are still seeking back pay would have to prove they worked. The prosecutor is also investigating the $40,000 contingent fund for the park board president which, the American said, was deposited in James personal bank accounts and was expended for travel, hotels and entertainment.

FISK WILL CASE IS SETTLED BY SUPREME COURT

Decision Ends Litigation Which Started In October, 1931

The case of Mary Fisk against the estate of Alexander Fisk has finally been terminated in favor of the surviving widow by the Supreme Court of Illinois refusing the petition for certiorari which was filed by the surviving nephews and nieces who hoped to take the estate under the will of the deceased. This case has been pending before the courts since October, 1931, the estate and the persons claiming it under the will being represented by lawyers Charles F. Preston of Paw Paw, Ray T. Lane of Chicago, George C. Dixon of Dixon, and the firm of Hyer & Gill of Rockford. Robert L. Bracken of the firm of Dixon, Devine, Bracken & Dixon has represented Mrs. Fisk in each of her many trials on this contract.

Alexander Fisk, a former resident of Paw Paw, on the first day of January, 1921, made a contract with his wife, Mary Fisk, to the effect that from the date of the contract they would live separate and apart and that each would waive all interest in the property of the other and that Mary Fisk in particular waived all claims for alimony if she should ever secure a divorce from her husband, all claims for separate maintenance and that she would waive and release his estate from all actions or suits which might arise out of the marital relation. It was also provided that the contract was intended to be expressly made for the purpose of waiving all benefits of the laws of the State of Illinois relating to husband and wife. The parties lived separate and apart but were never divorced. Alexander Fisk died leaving a will and devising his property to certain nephews and nieces, no mention of the wife being made in the will.

Widow Started Suit

After the death of Alexander Fisk, he not having supported his wife since 1921 and not making any provision for her in the will, the wife filed a bill in the Circuit Court of Lee County alleging that the contract was null and void and against public policy in that it was an attempt on the part of Alexander Fisk to contract with his wife that he would not be liable for her support. Each decision of the case, the Circuit Court of Lee County, the Appellate Court, Second District of Illinois, and the refusal of the Supreme Court to entertain a further hearing, has been in favor of the widow. Under the law the widow will now take one-half of the estate of Alexander Fisk. The case settles conclusively that a husband and wife cannot enter into a legal contract waiving the benefits of the laws of the State of Illinois and especially that a husband may not contract not to support his wife.

Tuesday Hottest Day Of Year: Mercury Touched 99: Relief Is On Today

Almost Entire Nation Suffered Under Excessive Heat

Cool breezes during the night drove the mercury in the government thermometer at Shuck & Bates store on Lincoln Way down to 63 from the record 99 which it touched yesterday afternoon making it the hottest day Dixon and vicinity had experienced this year. Today overcast skies followed by sprinklings of rain followed by lief to suffering humanity here

(By The Associated Press.)

Torrid temperatures spreading over far-flung sections of the nation added to the number of deaths of a record breaking June heat wave.

Away down south in Atlanta, Ga., folks perspired when the mercury climbed to 97 and north along the shores of Lake Superior, at Superior, Wis., it was only one degree cooler.

But definite relief was promised by the weatherman for some sections of the middle west today as summer made its official debut. Rain which sent the thermometer readings tumbling in the northwest yesterday, were due to spread to the central states today.

Add To Death Toll

Wisconsin, with ten deaths attributable to the heat, led the fatality list. Indiana and Michigan had nine each and both Ohio and Nebraska reported three dead. Two drowned in Kentucky and a like number died in Minnesota. St. Louis, with a reading of 96, reported one drowning.

The mercury rose to 98 at Franklin, Pa., and at Pittsburgh it was 95 yesterday while over the mountains at Philadelphia it was only 83. Baltimore received quick relief when the temperature slid from 93 to 70.

New Chicago Record

With the mercury at 98 for a new all-time June record Chicagoans looked longingly toward Lake Michigan in anticipation of promised northeast winds.

Hot spots in the nation yesterday were: Lone Rock, Wis., 106; Berlin, Wis., 105; and Durham, N. C., where is was 102 degrees for a new record. A drought was held responsible for damage to the cotton and tobacco crop.

Salt Lake City passed its 10th consecutive day of temperatures above 90 when a maximum of 93 was reached but Denver reported the weather normal as did the west coast. A hail storm in the vicinity of Wausau, Wis., damaged crops and property.

Louis XVI, king of France, on July 14, 1789, wrote in his diary: "Nothing"—it was on this day that the Bastille had fallen, a hundred of the king's men were slain, and the revolution began in earnest.

RADICAL STEPS TO SAVE WORLD PARLEY LIKELY

Discussion Of Monetary Questions At London May Be Stopped

London, June 21—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and other leaders of the world economic conference were understood this afternoon to be considering the radical step of suspending discussion of all monetary matters and dealing only with economic problems in order to prevent the possible wrecking of the conference over the currency stabilization imbroglio.

Gold standard countries were still talking about forcing adjournment of the conference pending stabilization of the American dollar and other currencies.

Conference leaders late in the day were canvassing the possibility of a satisfactory compromise being effected by a temporary abandonment of monetary affairs.

Get New Instructions

The American delegation received fresh instructions from President Roosevelt this afternoon, it was authoritatively learned. The nature of these instructions was not divulged.

The entire American delegation went into conference late in the afternoon with Secretary of State Cordell Hull at his hotel. Earlier there had been a meeting attended by James M. Cox, American delegate, MacDonald and James P. Warburg, American expert adviser.

Whether this meeting with MacDonald had anything to do with the President's message was a matter of much speculation in conference circles, but the conferees were "sitting tight."

Another Development

There was another startling development today. The conference awoke to the fact that the recently disclosed scheme for the creation of a central European economic bloc which would have far-reaching effect on international affairs had taken on amazing vigor and was growing apace at the portals of the conference.

This bloc, which would comprise the Little Entente—Czecho-Slovkia Jugoslavia and Rumania — and Austria and Hungary, is dependent on a reapproachment between Italy and France. Conference circles began to buzz with a report that Premier Mussolini was pushing hard to force a successful conclusion to the negotiations.

Miner Jailed For Toting Gun Around

Benton Ill., June 21—(AP)—Frank Jovi, 24, former president of Orient No. 2, mine local, was placed in jail today on a charge of carrying concealed weapons yesterday when Sheriff's forces broke up a Progressive miners' meeting at West Frankfort.

Similar meetings held simultaneously at Sesser, Valier and Zeigler were also broken up.

A petition signed by 126 United Miners working at Peabody mine No. 43 was presented to Sheriff Eugne Chossier of Saline county, asking him to give them the same protection the Progressives are given.

Question About Home Too Much For This Kidnaper

Barnstable, Mass., June 21—(AP) Cyril Buck, who with his brother Kenneth charged with the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath, collapsed on the witness stand in Barnstable Superior Court today as he started to testify in his own defense.

Willard Carleton, attorney for Cyril, gave an opening address to the jury and then called his client to the stand. Cyril had answered only a few questions when Carleton asked him:

"Do you own your own home?"

The defendant covered his face with his hands, reeled on the stand and clutched the rail for support. Attendants rushed to him and he was assisted to a chair, weeping.

A moment later he looked appealing through his tears at Judge Edward F. Hanify and the Judge called an hour recess to "allow the witness to recover."

Peggy was the last witness today for the prosecution. She was taken from the Harwich Center grammar school on May 2 and returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The money was recovered in the home of Kenneth, the prosecution said.

Peggy identified a note written to her by her father and on which she had scribbled an answer. The answer said she was "happy" although she would rather be home and it referred to her captor as "a nice man."

The child indicated in her testimony that she thought her kidnaper was her friend.

SETTLEMENT OF CEMENT BATTLE IS LABOR'S WISH

But Democrats In General Assembly Refuse To Move

Springfield, Ill., June 21—(AP)—Rep. Reuben Soderstrom, Streator Republican and president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, today sought to concentrate the attention of the House on the state's price controversy with cement manufacturers.

Soderstrom attempted to force consideration of a resolution he introduced May 23 which urged Governor Horner to settle the controversy without delay so that men could be reemployed on road construction projects.

Several Democratic Representatives, including Frank McClure of Abingdon and F. W. Lewis of Robinson, termed the resolution "a slap at the Governor."

Soderstrom denied any such intention. He said thousands of men were being kept from work by the state's failure to buy cement.

Democratic house memoers were in no mood to permit passage of the resolution, so Soderstrom yielded and announced he would not insist on a vote today, but would bring up his resolution again tomorrow.

Peoria Theater Manager Kills Thief After Being Critically Wounded By Latter Last Night

Peoria, Ill., June 21—(AP)—George A. Lyon, Jr., president of Little Theater here, World War veteran and prominent advertising man, shot and killed a burglar who entered his home early today, but not before the prowler had critically wounded him.

The home, that of Edward J. Smith, Lyon's father-in-law, overlooks the river and is in one of the city's most exclusive sections. The burglar entered through a downstairs window awakening Lyon and his wife as he walked into their upstairs bedroom. Taking several diamond rings as he walked down the hall to the bedroom of Smith and his wife. Lyon followed taking a heavy service pistol. The burglar turned, fired, shooting Lyon through the neck. Lyon returned the fire, the prowler tumbled down the stairs, shot through the heart. He is unidentified. Doctors say Lyon may not live.

UTILITY BILL MEETS DELAY IN THE SENATE

Sales Tax Is Facing Death On Rocks Of Party Lines

Springfield, Ill., June 21—(AP)—The administration's utility bill was sent to a committee by the Senate today and a Democratic caucus was called for this afternoon in an attempt to concentrate party support behind the plan to give the Illinois Commerce Commission additional power to supervise public utilities and reduce rates.

By a vote of 19 to 24, Democratic leaders failed to advance the bill to second reading at once. The House passed the bill yesterday.

Democratic caucuses have become frequent as the party leaders attempt to shove the Governor's special program through the Assembly before the end of June. Horner appeared personally at a House caucus last night

The bill was sent to the Democratic-controlled senate by an 85 to 48 roll call late yesterday following six hours of House debate over whether the Commerce Commission was being given dictatorial control over utilities.

Holding companies as well as operating companies would be placed under the jurisdiction of the commission, which would have power:

Dictatorial Powers

To order rate investigations at the cost of the companies and to place upon them the burden of proof in establishing the fairness of their charges.

To approve the payment of dividends.

Horner made the utility bill one of his major legislative issues on the ground that the consumer should be protected against high rates and the investor from issues of unsound securities.

The collapse of the Insull utilities empire, with enormous losses to investors, was given prominent mention in the House debate.

Devine Led Opposition

Most of the House Republicans voted against the bill, although the opposition was led by a Democrat, John P. Devine of Dixon. The Democratic leader, Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, refused to vote on the ground that undue authority was proposed for the commission.

Efforts were being made today to keep the sales tax from being pounded to pieces on the rocks of partisan politics.

Launched last night on what appears destined to be a stormy voyage in the House, the two percent bill advocated by Horner and already passed by a Democratic Senate immediately encountered enough Republican opposition to prevent its being advanced to second reading without committee reference.

May Try Again Today

Another effort to advance the bill may be made today if administration leaders are able to muster sufficient strength to effect this time-saving parliamentary device. If they can not it will go to a committee.

What effect Horner's action in appearing before a Democratic caucus earlier in the evening to urge passage of the measure had on the Republican side of the House is a matter of conjecture.

The sales tax was called up toward the close of a lengthy evening session and immediately after Democrats, voting as a unit, had passed a bill which permits the Chicago school board to replace its Republican attorney and business manager.

Angered at the Democratic action, Rep. Roland Libonati, Chicago Republican, yelled at Speaker Arthur Roe:

"If you are going to treat Republicans like this where do you think you'll get the votes for your sales tax."

"We'll determine that right now," Roe responded.

The sales tax was called up.

Immediately LeRoy Green, Rockford Republican and ardent foe of the bill, was on his feet moving that the House adjourn. On a roll call the Democrats overrode Green and Benjamin Adamowski, Chicago Democrat, moved that the rules be suspended and the bill advanced to second reading without reference to a committee.

Some Democrats Silent

A roll call was stated on Adamowski's motion, As it progressed it was apparent that a number of Democrats who had voted with their party in the preliminary moves were remaining silent.

As the roll neared an end Adamowski's motion had received but 68 votes. A constitutional majority of 77 is required to suspend the rules.

Howard Doyle, Decatur Democrat, moved for adjournment, and both Republicans and Democrats, who had been in session since early

Aged Man, Facing Girls' Accusation Drops Dead Today

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—Mrs. Bessie Opas, 36-year-old mother of two children, today heard her husband, Marion, 37, declare he believed her innocent of plotting to murder him.

Despite the husband's statement, Mrs. Opas was held to the grand jury with four youths who she has been accused of hiring to kill Opas. Bond for Mrs. Opas and two of the youths was set at $15,000 each. Bond of $3,000 was set for the other two.

"I think the boys are to blame," Opas said in court. Opas caused the arrest of his wife and the youths after discovering the alleged plot.

Mrs. Opas has denied police announcements that she confessed the alleged death plot. She said it was "all a mistake" arising from threats of extortionists to kill Opas unless she paid $5,000.

Higher Prices For Milk Are Promised

Chicago, June 21—(AP)—Higher prices to the farmer and removal of certain abuses resulting from competition were promised for the evaporated milk industry today by Dr. Frank E. Rice as he revealed the terms of the marketing agreement prepared for submission to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Among other things he said that the agreement, drawn up under the agricultural adjustment act, provided a set formula to determine the price of raw milk when sold at evaporating plants. He said it took into account the butter and cheese values.

The Secretary of Agriculture will receive the agreement at a public hearing June 29. The power of enforcement lies with him.

DUNLAP NEARLY BEATEN TODAY IN GOLF MATCH

American Favorite In British Tourney Won On 19th

Hoylake, Eng., June 21—(AP)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., leading United States entrant in the British amateur golf championship, narrowly escaped elimination in the fourth round today as Alaric de Forest of the Royal & Ancient Club of St. Andrews, carried him to the 19th hole before succumbing.

Hard-pressed all the way, the former American college champion squared the match for the second time on the incoming nine at the 18th hole, where his opponent was bunkered, and then won the first extra hole.

Keeping pace with the American C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States title, continued his brilliant play to defeat J. Walker, 6 and 5; and Roger Wethered, former titleholder and one of the British favorites, won a forth round match from Henry Howell 3 and 2.

Early in the day the long-driving Cyril Tolley, holder of the championship in 1920 and 1929 and an American resident for several years, won from T. C. J. Manners 2 and 1 with a rather erratic display.

Two American residents of London, Robert Sweeny and Douglas Grant, advanced to the fourth round but Charles Sweeny, brother of Robert was defeated in a third round encounter by H. N. M Fogg, 4 and 3.

Tolley joined the favorites in the fifth round bracket by beating a fellow Briton, Sam Robinson, 1 up, for his second victory of the day. Robinson is the former Lancashire champion and an internationalist.

UTILITY BILL MEETS DELAY IN THE SENATE

morning, joined in ending the session for the night.

The political tinge given the sales tax on its first appearance in the House bodes no good in the opinion of observors, for its ultimate fate.

Administration leaders were seeking today to recover the ground lost in last night's encounter.

If the measure continues as a party issue it stands little chance of passage. The Democrats have 79 votes in the House, but two more than a majority. Many downstate Democrats are opposed to the bill and probably would not vote for it on third reading no matter how much of a party issue it becomes.

On the other hand numerous Chicago Republicans are favorable to the measure as its primary purpose is to provide funds for relief of the unemployed.

BRIG. GENERAL GARRITY TO BE RETIRED TONIGHT

Veteran Commander In I. N. G. And U. S. A. To Be Relieved

Chicago June 21—(AP)—A soft spoken Irishman, veteran of three wars today donned his uniform for the last time as a soldier of the Illinois National Guard and the Army of the United States, after 44 years of service.

Brigadier General John J. Garrity, commanding the 66th brigade, Illinois National Guard today reached the statutory retirement age of 64 and was relieved from duty.

A military career that began as a "buck private" in H Company of the old Second Illinois Infantry on June 14, 1889, ended just one notch lower than the highest rank which a National Guardsman may hold, that of Major General. But tomorrow that honor will be his, too. Following the custom of the service, the state of Illinois will officially appoint him a Major General as soon as his active career ends tonight at midnight.

Won Spurs In Conflict

The General won his spurs during the Spanish-American War, commanding H Company of the second Illinois Volunteers.

Later came promotions and in 1907 he was appointed Colonel of the Second Illinois. He commanded the regiment during service on the Mexican border in 1916 and again took it to Texas in 1917, to prepare for overseas duty. He was denied the honor of leading the regiment, by this time designated as the 132nd Infantry United States Army, because of illness.

Made Chief of Police

Governor Len Small appointed him Brigadier General June 2, 1924. He was transferred to the 66th brigade in 1930.

General Garrity was nationally known for his efforts in behalf of the wounded veterans of the Spanish-American War. He was National Adjutant of the Spanish-American War Veterans for four years and later was National Commander of the organization for a year.

Tonight, several hundred of the General's associates and friends, including many high ranking state, county and city officials, will honor him at a banquet.

What do you hold?
Buttercups, buttercups,
Minting your gold?

How do your rootlets
Filch from the mire
Sunken sunbeams
To fountains of fire?

What bosoms have crumbled,
To lift you there,
Your golden Amens
To Beauty's Prayer?

You tip-toe and listen
To birds that rejoice
Those bits of a rainbow
Blessed with a voice!

I also am hearing
Your golden words,
O buttercups, buttercups
Rooted birds!

Elect Officers Today in the Supreme Camp of the R. N. A.

Detroit, June 21—(AP)—Election of officers was the principal item of business today in the Supreme Camp of the Royal Neighbors of America.

No serious contests were forecast and re-election of all incumbents, headed by Mrs. Mary E. Arnholt of Rock Island, Ill., Supreme Oracle, and Miss Erna M. Barthel, also of Rock Island, Supreme Recorder, was anticipated.

Yesterday, W. N. Phillips, Actuary, told the delegates that the order has $200,000 in excess of all legal requirements and that insurance in force was "100.44 per cent solvent" at the close of 1932. Phillips, who also is from Rock Island, said that the expense of management in 1932 was 88 cents a member which, he said, was lower than any other fraternal or commercial insurance company.

Miss Barthel said in her annual address last night that in spite of widespread banking difficulties, the society, "so far as can be foreseen, will not lose a dollar of its funds handled through depository banks."

The camp ratified a committee report which praised administration of society business and recommended that there be no change in salaries of supreme officers.

Fine New Barn Opened; Four Hundred in Attendance

The fine new barn just completed at the Lewis Scholl farm on Route 1, to take the place of the barn which was burned down, was opened last evening, and more than four hundred were in attendance to enjoy the excellent program given, and the ice cream social which was in charge of the Women's Missionary Association of the East Jordan church. The Otterbein Guild girls of the church sold candy.

The program included a vocal duet by Ken and Jerry Alberts of Rock Falls, the boys accompanying themselves on guitars; a dialogue by Duane Gilbert and Kenneth Scholl; a selection by the Male Quartet from McGrath Bros. of Polo; and an old fasioned medicine show; a vocal duet by Elaine and Eleanor Hummell; a reading by Miss Mildred Doweil; a negro spiritual by Mrs. Isabelle Detweiler and the concluding number was another duet by the Alberts brothers.

Then the ice cream social was enjoyed, and the up-to-date barn was inspected. Bossy certainly will be well cared for in this new home, for her comfort has been the aim and it has been achieved. Each stanchion has been fitted with an individual drinking fountain and the cow with a fresh, cool drink whenever she wants it. Talk about "contented" cows, as the announcer does on the radio—the cows at the Scholl farm are more than contented—they're happy!

ARE GRATEFUL TO YOUNG MEN WHO RESCUED DOG

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Johnson and son Willis are most grateful to the young man, whose name they did not learn, however, who rescued their pet Boston terrier, Sparky at Pine Creek, last Wednesday. The terrier was afraid to cross the bridge there, and started to swim across the creek, which has a swift current, and unable to make it, was sinking when a young man walked into the creek and saved the dog's life. On the return trip poor Sparky was again afraid of the bridge and would not trust himself in the water, and as he stood meditating on the hazards of life in general, the young man again appeared and carried him to safety.

Today's Bargain in Health

by

The Man Who Remembers

(Reading Time 24 Seconds)

Women have had an eye for bargains ever since Eve selected her first spring suit. While we were on the farm my wife bought a carpet sweeper once because the salesman said it was his last one and would let her have it at a bargain.

You can buy lots of bargains these days in country homes, fur coats, second hand stocks and bonds and used cars, but the BARGAIN IN HEALTH is Beier's Bread.

There is a difference in bread—and Beier's Bread proves it! It is made from only the finest ingredients and baked fresh every day in a spick-and-span bakery with modern equipment. Where else can you spend your money and get so much REAL FOOD value?

Yes Sir!—today's bargain in health is BEIER'S BREAD.

SOCIAL PROGRESS AT MUSCLE SHOALS

Some of the by-products of the measures adopted by the administration to get the nation out of the red may ultimately turn out to possess a social significance hardly dreamed of now.

There is a little sideshow in connection with the Muscle Shoals project, for example, that sounds almost as if someone had borrowed an idea from Soviet Russia and turned it into a 100 per cent American proposition.

Dr. A. E. Morgan, generalissimo at Muscle Shoals, plans to build a town somewhere near the site of Cove Creek dam in East Tennessee. In this town, in new, modern houses situated on wide, pleasant streets, will live some 2000 men recruited from the mountain towns and farmlands of the vicinity.

They will be workers on the $34,000,000 Cove Creek job—but they will be more than workers; they will be pupils in a new school of Americanism, as well.

Their hours of labor will be short, compared with the hours in big construction jobs of the past; and in their spare time they will go to school. They will be taught useful trades, such as carpentry, electrical engineering, masonry and so on. Their wives will be taught household arts; their children will go to model schools. Small farms and gardens adjoining their dwellings will enable them to raise a good part of their food supply.

When the Cove Creek dam is finished, some of these people will go back to their mountain communities again—fitted for a new kind of life, enabled to live in the isolation of mountain towns and homesteads without being caught in the grip of provincial ignorance. Others will remain in the new town to man the small industries which, it is expected, will operate with cheap electric power bought from the government.

In all of these there is the promise of a venture that is nothing less than dazzling. We are to get not only a great experiment in government power production at Muscle Shoals; we are to get an experiment in living, a sample of a new kind of social order stolen from the future.

There is to be a new kind of town there at Cove Creek, founded on a new theory, aimed at a new goal. It is perfectly possible that this plan may eventually turn out to be the most important single achievement of the present administration.

DANGERS IN THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

As the great depression of the 'thirties sinks into what we all devoutly hope will be its final coma, it is instructive to look back at the death-bed scenes of former depressions and see how they compare with this one.

By one way of looking at things, they are all much alike.

In former times, as now, the upward turn began before people realized it. Commodity prices began a slow but steady climb, security prices advanced, scattered factories began to put men back to work, people started buying things again—and then, the first thing anyone knew, we were out of it and there was a clear road ahead again.

That seems to be very much the way things are working out now. But there are one or two differences, and they modify the whole picture in a way that it is impossible to ignore.

In the first place, no previous depression led to such far-reaching and drastic action by the federal government. We have never before had anything like the new farm bill, the industrial control bill, and so on. No previous depression forced us off the gold standard; none ever caused so much power to be given to the president.

Secondly, the international situation is different. Never before did the climax of hard times in America coincide with such a near approach to chaos in international relations. The London conference, with all that it implies, is a new thing; the problems of disarmament, international debts, world peace and treaty revision give to our emergence from this depression an entirely new face.

Last of all, it is probably true that never before have we been so thoroughly disillusioned—with our leaders, with our institutions and with ourselves. We have called in question the basic features of our national life. Radical as our recovery program may seem, it is mild as milk compared with what the great mass of people will demand if recovery is delayed along the way.

We are coming out of it in a different way than we did other times. To say that we shall presently go in the old paths simply because "we have always recovered before" is to talk complete nonsense.

Everything is profoundly different. Only by recognizing the extent of the difference can we find our way safely through the next few critical years.

When we pay, as we did last year, $14,000,000,000, or about one-third of our national income, for taxes it is clear that we have too much government or pay too dearly for it.—H. H. Swift, vice president of Swift & Co.

Nothing can make people really more intellectually stupid than a progressive accumulation of facts without wisdom to interpret these facts and extract their vital meaning.—Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy, of Milwaukee, addressing Vassar graduates.

THE TINYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN — Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The happy Imp cooked eggs galore and then he said, "If you want some more, I'll put them on to fry. Come on, let's sit right down to eat.

"I've boiled potatoes. You can stuff until you all have had enough. Save room, though, for a piece of cake with frosting that is sweet."

Then Duncy, tickled as could be, said, "Give me cake! No eggs for me. I have a great big sweet tooth and of cake I'll eat my fill."

"Oh, no!" the Imp replied. "That is wrong. Sweet things will never make you strong. In fact, if that is all you eat you're likely to be ill."

"The Imp," wee Goldy cried, "is right. Not one of us should touch a bite of cake until we have eaten other things, just as we should."

And then the whole bunch gathered around a table and they shortly found that everything the Imp had cooked was really very good.

It wasn't very long until the Imp exclaimed, "I've had my fill, and now I think I'll take a nap." He flopped upon his cot.

"You Tinies do just what you like. Stay here, or go out for a hike. Try staying in the shade, though, because the sun is very hot."

"I'm going to stay right here a while," said little Dotty, with a smile. "The dishes must be washed. With Goldy's help I will get them done.

"I know it will not take us long. We'll put them all where they belong." "I also will lend a hand," said Coppy. "It will be real fun."

In about an hour the Tinies found that Mister Imp was sleeping sound. "We must not wake him," Windy said. "Don't anybody shout.

"The smartest thing to do, I'd say, is run out doors where we can play." And so, while Dotty covered up the Imp, the bunch all sneaked out.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—The last-minute revolt in the Senate against the reduction in compensation to veterans may have knocked into a cocked hat some of the outside impressions as to the lineup in the changed political front on Capitol Hill.

It concerned that group of independent Republicans led by Senator George Norris, and, although the President's program won out in the end there were lively moments before this result ensued.

During all the previous trying and protracted experiences of the administration one might have gotten the impression that this group was about the only tranquil one in Washington.

It was unusual for these independents too. Ordinarily the independents in Congress are the tempestuous ones that bring grief to those in authority.

Of course, it's true that "Young Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin broke loose for a while during the Senate's investigation of the house of Morgan. He endeavored to prove to the Senate that a part of the opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence Waterway was linked up with the Morgan list of favored investors. But there were few such departures.

As Some Saw It

Political observers in the capital thought they had explanations for their tranquility. Some believed that it was because many of them had backed Roosevelt in the campaign and thus had a man of their own choosing in the White House.

Others, pointing to the Roosevelt legislative program, asked why the independent Republicans should raise a howl. Weren't they seeing many of the principles of government for which they have fought so long being written into the law?

Those may or may not have been the reasons for the spirit of cooperation shown by that group toward the administration before the revolt on veterans' compensation

Then They Balked

But they did kick over the traces on that issue and in typical fashion.

If you can picture a man with the reputation for insurgency that George Norris of Nebraska has, to say nothing of every other member of his group, lined up in the same voting column with Old Guard and various other republicans—then you have it.

Perhaps the action of the independents was just another affirmation of the credo of independence subscribed to by all in the group.

Everyday Religion

LIFE, LOVE, AND LUGGAGE

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

On a journey up the Ganges, Alexander Duff visited the old city of Futchpur-Sikri, where stands one of the largest mosques in the world. On the right as he entered the mosque he observed an Arabic inscription in large letters. To his amazement it proved to be a saying of Jesus, not found in the New Testament, which, put into English, reads: "Jesus said: The world is merely a bridge, ye are to pass over it, and not to build your dwelling on it."

It does simplify life to know that we are pilgrims in the world, and have to pass on. For when a man starts on a journey he does not take everything with him, but only such things as he really needs. It is thus largely a matter of discrimination and transportation. To know what to take and what to leave is one of the finest of arts. It asks for insight, judgment, and a sense of values, and we may well take counsel of the wisest minds, lest we overload ourselves.

One reason why the race moves so slowly is that it tried to take too much with it, weighing itself down with old creeds, customs, and no end of useless rubbish which ought to be thrown aside. Much worthless luggage is carted over the hills and valleys of the years, hindering the human advance. Dogma, said Phillips, Brooks, is truth packed for transportation. No doubt; but we need the truth every day, and why pack it up so tightly?

It amazed Thereau when he saw men staggering along the road with acres of land on their backs, and houses and bags of money. No wonder they are weary. Others carry old hates, old grudges, old disappointments, which wear down their strength for nothing. At the end of the year it is wise to unpack our bundle and sort out the things we do not need—throwing the litter out the window and over the wall.

How much does a man need for his journey? If the experience of the ages may be believed, the things we actually need are very few, but they are very great. "There abideth Faith, Hope, and Love, these three; but the greatest of these is Love." To which let us add Conurage, the root of every virtue, without which life is either too tame or too terrifying to endure. Wisdom is not enough; one may have a pocketful of proverbs, but he will lose his way unless, like the Psalmist, he trusts God and makes His laws the songs of the open road.

A DISEASE AUTOBIOGRAPHY

The medical dictionary defines autopathography as a written description of one's own disease.

Medical literature contains a number of very graphic and highly useful disease biographies, wherein physicians, heirs to the ills of human flesh, have set down with impressive detail their experiences as patients.

A recent such contribution is a work written by Dr. Leonard Mark, giving an account of his own sufferings from acromegaly, a constitutional disease, due to disturbances in a small gland, the pituitary.

Such a disease causes the individual to develop a brute-like appearance, because of an extraordinary enlargement of the bones of the body, particularly of the skull face, arms and legs.

Much of our general knowledge of disease comes from the physician who falls victim to a disease and thereafter devotes his life and energies to a study of the pathologic condition going on within him.

Our own great American physician, Edward Livingston Trudeau, developed tuberculosis as a young man and devoted the rest of a long life to the study of this serious malady. John Hunter, the famous British anatomist, graphically described attacks of angina pectoris to which he was subject and from which he ultimately died.

Non-medical men have also contributed to this phase of medical development. The American mental hygiene movement owes much to a former asylum inmate, Clifford W. Beers, whose work, "A Mind That Found Itself," gives a graphic account of his experiences with insanity.

In the field of psychiatry such a contribution is especially valuable, for while it is not uncommon for a surgeon to go through an attack of appendicitis, gallstones or kidney stones, it is only rarely that an individual suffering insanity has the acuteness and the capacity to describe the condition when he recovers.

Tomorrow—Whooping Cough.

A BOOK A DAY

AN EVENTFUL NIGHT ON A CRACK TRAIN

By Bruce Catton

There's some rather brisk and interesting summer reading to be found in "Sleepers East," by Frederick Nebel. This compact and unpretentious novel has an entertaining tale to tell, even if it is—in spite of the disclaimer on the jacket—another of those stories of a group of people thrown together by chance.

The scene is a limited train speeding across the middle west in a winter blizzard, bound for New York.

Aboard are divers people. There's a lawyer taking east a woman who will give testimony that will clear his client of a murder charge. There's a private detective who wants to get to this witness and get her to refuse to testify. There's a pompous congressman who has the same idea.

There's a newspaper gal who's engaged to the congressman but who is still partly in love with the lawyer. There's a small town business man running away from his wife, a railroad detective trying to figure out why he was ordered to take this particular train, a veteran engineer trying to get the train through on time on his last run, and a figety conductor.

During the course of the night the activities of all of these people get badly scrambled. Chance becomes the arbiter of their destinies; and all of them—except, perhaps the newspaper gal, who winds up in the lawyer's arms—find that they can't make anything turn out as they wish. . . . And, all in all, it's not a bad story.

Illinoisans In The News At Washington, D. C.

By GERALD MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, June 21 —(AP)— The nation's new Director of Airways is a native Peorian.

Rex Martin, who stepped into his new office after serving Rep. Kent E. Keller, Democrat of Ava, Ill., his foster father, for years as secretary, carries with him all the airs of the ancient "heavy" of the "Ten Nights in a Barroom" days.

He is tanned to a brown. His hair is coal black. He has a large, well developed mustache as black as his hair and bushy brows.

But Martin is no villian. He is sentimental, soft spoken, and a bit too gentle for his glowering darkness.

Martin was born in Peoria, Jan. 30, 1898. When his father died while Rex was very young, Rep. Keller, then a State Senator, took him to rear.

Sent first to the University of Illinois to study basics, he was soon transferred to Kelly Field, and then to Post Field, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, as an instructor.

From there he was sent about from air field to air field until he was finally given orders to sail for France. The war ended before he ever got to New York.

Another of the Illinois home town boys "who made good" is Jesse M. Donaldson, who has been made Deputy Second Assistant Postmaster General.

Donaldson was born at Shelbyville, Ill., Aug. 17, 1885, and received his first postoffice appointment in 1930 as a clerk in the fourth class postoffice at Hanson, of which office his father was postmaster.

He entered the classified postal service in 1908 as a letter carrier at Shelbyville, Ill., and a year later was transferred to a clerical position at the same office where he served in all capacities until October, 1910, when he accepted a position in the Adjutant General's office, War Department, Washington.

In March, 1911, he was transferred to a position as clerk in the postoffice at Sparta, Ill., where he remained until July 1, 1911, when he was made foreman in the postoffice at Muskogee, Okla.

He passed the Civil Service examination for Postoffice Inspector, and was appointed in February, 1915.

VACATIONS and HEALTH

By Dr. ERNEST H. LINES
Eminent Authority and Chief Medical Director New York Life Insurance Company

PLANNING YOUR VACATION

VACATIONS and holidays are magic words that conjure up in our minds all the pleasures of travel and change, all the excitements of new places and strange faces, and all the rest and relaxation that come from temporary release from the drudgery and cares that are the lot of all of us in one way or another.

But they should also be planned with an eye towards the fact that they are intended to build us up for the next year's work. Too often people work so hard having a good time that they come home all played out, needing the rest they should have had on their vacation.

Even worse is the idea that we must forget everything but fun and pleasure. Of course banishing business worries and spending your vacation in the proper mental attitude are among the first essentials to getting the most out of your holidays. But it is also wise to use a little forethought to prevent the accidents and illnesses that can so easily spoil a vacation and turn a good time into a tragedy.

Change and Moderation

In planning your vacation, remember that in many respects "a change is as good as a rest." Don't spend your holidays like the sailor who went boating, or the mail-carrier who took a long walk. If possible, do just the opposite from your usual round of activities.

For example, if your occupation is a sedentary one demanding great expenditure of mental energy, plan a vacation of mild physical activity free from all strain. Golf, tennis, swimming, baseball, hiking, and similar physical pursuits in moderation are suggested. Don't begin too vigorously. Exercise should leave a feeling of pleasant fatigue, rather than exhaustion, which is dangerous to health.

Or, if you do physical work the year round, then seek a holiday of relaxation, and perhaps study and read a bit to exercise the mental processes. Some men enjoy the quiet solitude that comes from fishing. Travel for those who can afford it provides an excellent means of obtaining cultural and educational advantages.

Get away from home if you can. If you can't, remember that many people can get more good from spending their vacations at home loafing than those who tire themselves out going away.

Whatever your vacation program may be, don't make it too fatiguing or strenuous. You should plan to build up a reserve of mental and physical energy that may be called upon during the ensuing year. Keep in mind that change and moderation are the two essentials of a profitable vacation.

This is the first of a series of 12 articles on Vacations and Health. The second, on Children in Summer Months, will answer the questions:

1. How should the child's vacation be planned? 2. What precautions should be taken by children in cities? 3. What should be done before children go to summer camps?

LOANS ON FARMS CAN BE SECURED THROUGH AGENT

L. S. Griffith Of Amboy, Functioning Under New Federal Law

Farmers in this vicinity will be interested to know that the new farm loans may be made with farm lands as security, either through the Federal Land Bank or through the agent of the Farm Loan Commissioner, both of St. Louis, Mo. The local representative is L. S. Griffith of Amboy, Secretary-Treasurer of the Lee County National Farm Loan Association. Mr. Griffith has been appointed local correspondent to take applications for new loans or for re-financing present mortgages or personal indebtedness.

The Commissioner loans are being made as either first or second mortgages and the funds may be used to retire present indebtedness or to secure working capital and to re-finance foreclosured farms. Personal property may be used as additional security to farm land in securing a Commissioner loan. No loans can be made on personal property alone.

Limit of $5,000

The Commissioner loans are limited to $5,000 each and these loans, in addition to all other indebtedness must not exceed 75 of the appraised value of the farm. The interest rate on these loans is 5%. A Commissioner loan may be retired at any time but after the third year one-tenth of the principal is to be paid each year, thus repaying a loan in thirteen years.

The regular Federal farm loans are being made in the usual way and may be carried over a period of 34 years, if desired, although they may be repaid in full anytime after five years and one-fifth or less of the loan may be repaid any year during the first five years. Thus liberal pre-payment provisions are allowed on either kind of loan. Farmers should not expect that these loans will be made to anyone who cannot repay them and that no funds are to be given away. The ability of the farmer to repay his loan, his past history and the history of the farm are all considered, as usual. It is the purpose of the farm loan act to help deserving farmers and loans are made only on good business principals and cannot be made unless the farmer has an equity in the farm at present appraised values.

L. S. Griffith at Amboy, Secretarq-Treasurer of the Lee County National Farm Loan Association, will be glad to talk over with any prospective borrower his need for a loan and take applications for either or both of these loans.

THAT it is a good idea to express sound sense in plain words.

Working means something more than working for yourself.

In order to prosper you must work not only for yourself, but also for the general good of your community.

Every city has its share of men who have fought and won; men who have risen to high positions—not alone in their own home city, but beyond the confines of that city.

They have done it with a spirit of comradeship; they shouldered their full share of work and responsibility when called upon to do so for their city's sake, no matter what sacrifices they had to make.

A city's biggest men are the least pompous men there. Inflated self-esteem, exaggerated ego and other human fallacies do not enter their system.

High-Ball Gas Less Efficient Than Regular Fuel

Washington, June 21 —(AP)—The American Automobile Association today reported that recent road and laboratory tests of alcohol-gasoline blends as motor fuel, conducted in cooperation with the Bureau of Standards, showed the blend to be less efficient than regular gasoline.

The association said that road tests with a fuel containing ten per cent alcohol developed that the blend is nearly five per cent less efficient than gasoline alone. It added that laboratory tests showed heavier fuel consumption when the blended fuel was used and also that its use required a richer flow for acceleration.

The tests were conducted, starting June 9, in response to many proposals for national legislation offered by mid-western members of Congress to require the use of alcohol in gasoline in an effort to care for corn surpluses.

The association said that in road tests the operation of four conventional types of automobiles over a ten-mile course developed that the blended fuel is on an average 4.94 per cent less efficient than the regular gasoline.

Road tests with a fifth automobile, run at the same time over a measured course, showed a decrease in miles per hour, miles per gallon and increase in fuel consumed when the blended fuel was used.

Laboratory tests, it said, showed fuel consumption with the blend to be 4.5 per cent greater than the regular fuel.

IOWA BOLTS POSITION

Des Moines, June 21 (—AP)—Bolting from its place in the ranks of the traditionally dry states, Iowa today was recorded among the 14 already on record as favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The 3 to 2 vote cast yesterday in favor of repeal was another blow to hopes of prohibition supporters to prevent the repeal of the constitutional provision which has been a subject of bitter debate since its adoption.

By its mandate, the Hawkeye electorate automatically approved the repeal amendment, since the vote elected a group of 99 delegates at large pledged to repeal. The delegates will meet July 10 to ratify formally the twenty-first amendment to the Federal constitution.

A huge repeal majority in the heavily populated counties of the state swung the balance in favor of repeal while the rural sections voted approximately even for and against the proposal.

River Counties Wet

Counties along the Mississippi river went heavily for repeal, nothably Dubuque and Clinton counties, while Polk county gave repeal at 10,000 majority and other urban counties contributed large leaders.

The count, with 2,304 of the state's 2,435 precincts reported, showed a vote of 368,691 for repeal and 242,612 against. The remaining precincts were scattered through 28 counties and could not affect the final result.

Of the 71 counties from which complete returns were available, only 28 of them were recorded in the dry column. Taking the 99 counties as a whole, 35 or 36 of them appeared likely to cast a majority in favor of retention of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The south-central section of the state was the only region voting solidly against the repeal amendment, while in the entire north half of the state only about eight counties were listed in the repeal column, and some of these by a small margins.

NEW HAMPSHIRE IN LINE

Manchester, N. H., June 21—(AP)—New Hampshire today swung into step with the repeal states.

Granite State voters yesterday gave a more than two to one majority to the ten delegates pledged to repeal of the 18th Amendment. The vote was: for repeal, 75,999; against repeal, 30,340.

Gov. John G. Winant had no statement to make as the result of the balloting was made known, but he previously said he soon would call the elected delegates to the State House to ratify the popular sentiment in favor of the 21st amendment, which would repeal the 18th.

The vote was slightly more than half that cast in the last election and 47 towns among the smaller rural communities maintained the dry position but recently prevalent in New Hampshire. The huge wet majority rolled up in the larger cities, however, gave the repealists their easy victory.

6 TO 1 IN CONN.

New Haven, Conn., June 21—(AP)—An avalanche vote of more than 6 to 1 for repeal placed Connecticut squarely in the ranks of the 14 states which stood today for ratification of the proposed 21 amendment, which would end national prohibition.

Fifty delegates, 15 from the state at large, and one from each of the 35 senatorial districts, were selected to meet in convention July 11 at Hartford pledged to vote unanimously to ratify the proposed amendment.

With only a light vote cast, less than half that cast in the last presidential election, the repealists won a decisive victory, sweeping the cities by as much as 12 to 1, and carry all but a few of the traditionally dry rural towns.

Complete unofficial returns gave:

For repeal 236,915.
Against repeal 35,349.

The result came as no surprise to wets and drys alike, who agreed before the election that the state which never ratified the 18th Amendment would vote to reject it.

W. C. T. U. DISAPPOINTED

New York, June 21—(AP)— Mrs. Ella A. Boole, National President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, expressed keen disappointment today over the result of the repeal election in Iowa.

"We rather expected Connecticut and New Hampshire to vote for repeal," she said, "but we had great hopes for Iowa. It seems that Iowa, too, has been overcome by the great wet wave.

"I do not believe that sentiment in the rural districts has changed. It was the vote of the cities, especially along the Missisippi river and along the western border. Of course, I'm sorry.

The drys are just doing their best. Of course, we'll have to accept the results, whatever it is, but I do not believe that repeal will be ratified by the required number of states.

"At any rate, until 36 states do ratify, the 18th amendment is still the law of the land."

BOTH NEW YORK TEAMS SHOWING SIGNS OF A DROP

Find Their Leads Are In Real Danger After Yesterday

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York's two baseball clubs, the Giants and the Yankees appear ready to sink or swim together this season. The danger of their sinking is not to be regarded lightly.

When the Giants moved into the National League lead on June 4, they started the first stretch of any appreciable length in six years that two clubs from the same city have topped the mjor leagues. Now it appears more than likely that they will go down at the same time.

Twice in the past few days the Yanks have turned aside the Washington threat just in the nick of time. Today their margin was only one game and the Giants had only half that lead over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ruth Leads Attack

It was Babe Ruth who led the Yankees out of danger yesterday and paced them to a 15 to 8 victory over the Chicago White Sox when a defeat would have thrown them into a tie with the idle Senators for the American League lead. The Babe climbed out of a sick bed to take part and promptly made the Chicago fans wish he had remained there by clouting his fifteenth homer as a major part of the seven run rally in the sixth inning that put the game away.

The Giants, after ringing up two straight shutouts against their old rivals the Chicago Cubs, went down to 5-3 defeat. Bud Tinning and Burleigh Grimes collaborated on a good pitching job for the Cubs. St. Louis neatly mowed a game off the Giants' lead by trouncing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 15-4, gathering 17 hits, including homers by Leo Durocher and Joe Medwick in the eighth inning when they scored eight runs.

Pirates Trounce Braves

Pittsburgh's Pirates beat the Boston Braves 6 to 2 for their fourth straight victory as Bill Swift pitched six hit ball and the Bucs put over five runs in the third. The Phillies took two games from the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4 and 7-3. A 16 hit assault enabled Johnny Jackson, former University of Pennsylvania flinger, to win his first major league start with ease and 15 more blows, including Chuck Klein's 13th homer won the second battle.

Although outhit, the Philadelphia Athletics snapped their losing streak with a 9-4 triumph over Detroit and broke their fifth-place deadlock with the Tigers. The Boston Red Sox pounded Belve Bean hard in the late innings and downed the Cleveland Indians again, 9 to 5.

Perroni Is Winner Over Veteran Risko

Cleveland, June 21 —(AP)—Patsy Perroni, fast-stepping 22-year-old Canton, O., youngster crowned a string of 19 straight ring victories last night by punching out his twentieth consecutive triumph over Johnny Risko, the 30-year-old veteran who has been up among 'em for a decade.

A left that whistled about Risko's jaw and a right that rattled in the same sector carried Perroni through with a margin to spare. The judges credited him with seven of the ten rounds with an almost even break in the eighth.

The battle featured a fight card of 48 rounds, that 5,858 persons paid $12,014.50 to see.

DEFICIENCY IN KINNEY'S BOOKS IS ALLEGATION

State Auditor Barrett Says Private Audit Is Complete

Springfield, Ill., June 21—(AP)—The State's Auditor's office today announced that an audit showed a deficiency of $174,190.15 in the accounts of Garret Del F. Kinney of Peoria, Director of Finance during the Emmerson administration.

Joseph J. Rice, who succeeded Kinney as Director of Finance, said a report would be made to Governor Horner as soon as the audit is analyzed.

Kinney formerly was State Treasurer.

The report from the office of Edward J. Barrett, State Auditor, said that in addition to a total cash deficiency of $174,190.15 on January 31, the Department of Finance had $352,803.31 on deposit in closed banks.

Of the latter amount, $250,748.09 was tied up in the Ridgely Farmers Bank of Springfield and $102,055.22 in the Ayers National Bank of Jacksonville.

The audit, made by a local firm of accountants, said that of the total cash deficiency, $85,194.01 existed Oct. 31, 1931, when the Department's books were examined by another firm of accountants.

The report by the local accountants, Relaph Turnball & Co., alleged that on January 31 there was a cash deficiency of $88,996.14, summarized as follows:

Summary of Allegation

Receipts entered in "cash received" book, but not deposited, $19,-114.66.

Irregular cash withdrawals $69,-881.48.

Differences totaling $85,194.01 on Oct. 31, 1931, were reported to have included $50,000 as "difference in Ridgely-Farmers State Bank" and the remainder as "difference in recorded collections and cash deposits on March 27, 1931."

The state has filed suits against the defunct banks at Springfield and Jacksonville to recover departmental funds on deposit.

For some time, state officials have investigated the accounts of Mr. Kinney and invited him to come to Springfield to explain the records.

Kinney was bonded for $25,000 by a surety company which is now in receivership.

Among alleged "irregular withdrawals" shown by the audit was $35,225.20 from the Commercial National Bank & Trust Company of Peoria. Two drafts for that total were alleged to have been cleared through a Chicago bank and deposited to the credit of the Culter & Proctor Stove Company of Peoria.

Withdrawals of $34,626.28 from the Ridgley-Farmers bank here also were traced to the stove company by the accountant.

The report declared that deposits to banks had been difficult to trace.

McGRAW TO HAVE TWO ASSISTANTS IN FEATURE GAME

He Will Also Have Power To Pick Team He Thinks Best

New York, June 21—(AP)— John McGraw will have the advice of two active managers and a squad of 23 players to choose from when he leads his all-star National League team against a similar array from the American League at Comiskey Park, Chicago, July 6.

Club owners of the National League, meeting here yesterday, approved McGraw's plan to assign coaching jobs to Managers Bill McKechnie of the Boston Braves and Max Carey of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and at the same time decided to take advantage of the regular season player limit.

Although the lineups will be determined largely on the basis of the popular vote now in progress under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune, McGraw and Connie Mack, leader of the American League team, will be authorized to use their discretion in selecting batting orders or making substitutions after the game is under way.

McGraw will have a battery of at least four pitchers and three catchers, as well as two complete sets of infielders and outfielders.

"Mr. McGraw will have full power to put the strongest team he can muster on the field," said John A. Heydler, National League president. "We want the game to be a real test of strength."

Although the all-star game was the principal business of the gathering, the club owners took advantage of the opportunity to discuss possible changes in the 1934 playing schedule, including a later start. A proposal, advocated by the Cleveland News, that two six-inning games be substituted for the usual daily nine-inning contest, making a season's schedule of 308 instead of 154 games, was turned down.

Loughran-Hamas Bout On Tonight

New York, June 21 —(AP)—Tommy Loughran, once the light heavyweight champion of the world, and Steve Hamas, an all-around athlete at Penn State College a few years ago, meet for the fourth time in the feaure 10-round bout of Tim Mara's boxing show at the Yankee Stadium tonight.

Hamas, considered one of the best of the younger heavyweight prospects a couple of seasons ago, has been hampered by a "trick knee," hurt when he was playing football for Penn State but claims the injury has been cured now. Hamas knocked out the Philadelphia veteran in two rounds in their first meeting and won a disputed decision in the second fight. In their last bout, Loughran boxed his way to a clear-cut decision.

HEDGING A BIT—

Some time ago the writer gave out the impression that he picked the Pirates to be the National League team that would lose four out of seven games to the American League champions in the world series this year. Well, perhaps I'll hedge a bit.

It looks now as if the New York Giants would be that team — especially since Lefty O'Doul is going to play in the outfield for Bill Terry.

There's little doubt that Lefty, who hasn't hit under .319 since his full-time introduction to big-league baseball in 1928, is going to put an added punch in that Terry crew that will go a long way toward keeping them in the winning frame of mind they have displayed recently.

It may be that Bill Terry, who is earning himself quite some reputation as a manager since taking the helm of the Giants, has foreseen a break in his boys' play — and added O'Doul to the roster as a psychological move.

HE'LL GET GOING—

The great O'Doul, leading hitter of last year in the old loop, slumped miserably this year. His swatting mark at the time of the deal with the Dodgers was just about the size of your hat—.260.

Lefty, the guy who has been traded, exchanged, chased and given away by the Yankees, Giants, Phillies, and Dodgers, is known as "the man in the green suit." He came by that classification in an honest way. When he'd get into a slump he'd don an old green suit he has—and he's been wearing it so much lately that it's just about ready to part company with him.

But the former southpaw who was made into an outfielder by Miller Huggins, is going to his his stride before long, and when he does, it'll be curtains for National League pitchers.

WHO'LL WARM THE BENCH?—

Terry can't replace Mel Ott out there in right for the simple reason that the young feller has a sizable batting attack himself, and can cover a lot of ground. So it remains to bench either Moore or Davis.

It is our guess that Lefty will be out there in place of Moore.

Somerville Goes Into Fifth Round

Hoylake, Eng., June 21— (AP)— C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, seeking the British amateur golf title to match the United States crown he already wears, today advanced to the fifth round of the current British championship with a 6 and 5 victory over J. Walker, of Coombe Hill.

Eight thousand acres of land in Central Asia were sown to wheat in 15 days by four airplanes under an experiment of the Soviet government.

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today—Jack Sharkey defeated Max Schmeling to win the world heavyweight title. The decision was unpopular.

Five Years Ago Today—Mickey Walker retained the middleweight title by gaining a decision over Ace Hudkins in a 10-rounder at Chicago.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Dodgers won a slugfest with the Pirates, scoring in the tenth inning to cop the decision, 15-14.

Matchmaker Ed Hooker announced the complete bill this morning, which promises to be one of the best ever presented locally. The double windup feature brings boxers from Peoria and Rock Island together. Johnny Baltzer is matched against Willie Prior in the 112 pound division in the feature bout of the evening.

Quinn McCann and Danny Steer are paired for the semi-windup at 122 pounds. This is a battle to which the fans are looking forward to with the expectation of seeing plenty of action on the part of both contestants.

Johnny Becker of Peoria, who has been seen in former local bills is slated to exchange punches with Kid Hargrave of Rock Island at 147 pound weights.

The third bout of the evening will see Young Doty take on a hard customer in Pewee Woods of Rock Island in the 135 pound division. Doty is expected to go places this summer and is reported to be in excellent condition for his initial showing of the season.

Canzoneri, Ross Both Are Ready

Chicago, June 21 —(AP)— Tony Canzoneri, owner of the world lighweight championship, and Baraway from him Friday night in the away from him Friday night inthe Chicago Stadium, are ready for the ten-round battle even to the point of predicting how and when it will end.

Canzoneri, who has managed to hang on to the crown against Jack (Kid) Berg, Billy Petrolle and Kid Chocolate, figures that the fight will go about three rounds and that he will still be champion.

Ross, the most promising championship hope Chicago has produced in a long time, thinks Tony has slipped, can't go very fast very long, and expects to win by a knockout by the seventh round.

Those who wager money on such things have made Canzoneri an 8 to 5 favorite, and he probably will enter the ring at least that much of a choice.

REVELATION OF AMERICAN MONEY PLANS EXPECTED

Assistant Secretary Of Treasury To Join In London Parley

New York, June 21—(AP)—Ray F. Moley, fresh from a sea talk with his chief, packed up this morning and got ready to depart at noon as President Roosevelt's messenger to the Americans at the world economic conference.

The Assistant Secretary of State kept ris own counsel. There was no statement from him as he arrived yesterday by seaplane from the Amberjack II, which he boarded off Provincetown, Mass.

The smartly dressed professor who has a prominent pace in the Roosevelt "brain trust," was expected to confer before departure with Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, who is a power in the present administration as he was in the years when Woodrow Wison was at the helm.

EXPECT REVELATION

Washington, June 21 — (AP) — Capital observers following the internatoinal muddle over currency stabilization expect an early revelation of strategy back of the American administration's moves.

The airplane dash of Assistant Secretary Moley to President Roosevelt's schooner for last minute instructions, before today's sailing for the London conference, was generally taken here to presage new life for that hitherto somewhat stumbling parley.

Even before Moley completes his transatlantic crossing results of his personal contact with the President may be revealed. What he was told will be relayed to Washington through Bernard M. Baruch, now the unofficial policy spokesman of Roosevelt in Washington, who had arranged to confer in New York with the Assistant Secretary today. Moley also has been in continuous touch with the American delegation at London by cable.

More Speculation

Speculation in the meantime turned on the motive behind yesterday's new assertion by Dean Acheson, Underscretary of the Treasury, that the administration did not see any reason for quick stabilization.

Washington, conscious of Roosevelt's desire to see the world's major currencies level off without artificial support before the dollar is pegged, noted that the United States blocking of stabilization has sent the dollar tumbling lower in the world markets, noted, too, fresh French alarm that the dollar decline would force the franc itself off the jealously-held gold standard.

The effect of the Treasury declaraton was particularly pointed since the consternation caused at the London conference by the Roosevelt veto of the first stabilization proposal had been considerably allayed by the American plan for revalorization of world currencies, which has been gaining adherents among the conferring nations.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland received the first parcel post package in this country; Jamaica officials sent her a feathered fan on adoption of the parcel post treaty with the United States.

SEEK TO PREVENT LIMITATIONS ON MAXIMUM WAGES

Administrator Of the National Recovery Act States Position

Washington, June 21—(AP)—The government is going to do everything possible to prevent trade agreements made under the National Recovery Act from limiting top wages.

Hugh S. Johnson, administrator ofof th law, is anxious to have all industry accept codes of fair competition fixing minimum wages. But if he can help it, organized labor's recurring contention that minimum wages often become maximums will not be borne out this time.

He summed up his reaction to that argument in this sentence:

"There was a minimum wheat price during the war that became the maximum, and the farmers haven't gotten over that yet."

And he added that he would fight any attempt to repeat the war time wheat price mistake.

He is willing, however, for other industries to follow the cotton textile trade and fix minimums that vary with localities. The cotton code, to be opened to public hearing next Tuesday, sets a $10 minimum for southern and an $11 minimum weekly wage for northern workers.

Differences In Cost

"There are differences in living costs," he said. "In the common labor rate between Moline and Chicago there is a difference of about 7 cents. But I think the people in Moline are better off."

Industry, he said, is responding favorably to requests for speed in the presentation of agreements for approval by the federal government.

Even as he said that the whole cotton and the iron and steel industries are working on codes, the American Institute of Meat Packers presented the outline of a proposed trade agreement called for by the Farm Act.

Although many of its provisions have not been finally drafted, and some are unacceptable to administrators of the act, the aim in this agreement is to bring a reduction in the aggregate tonnage of swine and corn production, and a cut in the spread between the price the producer gets for his hogs and the price the consumer pays for pork.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background, wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hypocrisy.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEXTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, hinting at knowledge of Dexter's past (all of which is bluff), frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

At Miss Ella Sexton's home Barrett meets Elinor Stafford again and takes her for a drive.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

A FEW moments later Barrett tucked Elinor into the green roadster which he had had the foresight earlier to order left before his door.

"What a nice car!" she murmured.

He was absurdly pleased that she liked it. He settled beside her saying, "Must I take you straight home or can we have a short drive?"

"I'd love to go for a drive!" Elinor answered. The way she said it made Barrett want to put his hand over hers; wanted to do this with a new and shaken intensity. He had found his aesthetic, he realized. The troubles of the past few days that had been haunting him were already growing dim.

"Do you like to drive?" he asked.

"Yes, I do—but not in a glass cage," she answered. "I like open cars in which you seem close to the earth and can feel the wind on your face."

"So do I," Barrett agreed.

Elinor wondered what to say next; she never did know. Barrett, too, was wondering whether she considered him a dull, middle-aged bore. He wished he had learned more about women from any one of them he had known.

She admitted falteringly a moment later, "I'm afraid you'll be bored because I never know what to say—"

He laughed delightedly. "That's good to hear," he said, "because I was afraid you'd be wearied on the same score."

She raised big, amazed eyes to his. For a second he ignored the traffic to look down and his heart told him that she was a darling child and that he was not so old as he had thought. And then all at once they were talking.

She didn't know why it was, Elinor admitted, that she always felt constrained at her aunt's. Did he like Miss Smythe? She thought she didn't quite understand Miss Smythe. No, Barrett said, he didn't understand Miss Smythe either. And Craven, she said, made her feel embarrassed too. The way he called out her name when she entered the drawing room. Did he know the picture of the frog in "Alice in Wonderland?" Craven looked so much like that frog!

• • •

BARRETT had headed the car down town into the narrow streets that are silent and open to echoes on Sundays, the same streets that hum on working days. Here and there in windows were lights, muted by the late afternoon to pale lemon, but most of the cloud-brushing buildings slept. The comparative stillness made Barrett feel alone with the girl. He doubted (the thought coming to him in a flash) whether most men in the throes of an intense love affair could be as happy as he was at that moment. He felt absurdly content.

He turned the car to a bridge below which the river proclaimed itself in the thickening twilight by holding its unsteady mirror to the lights.

"I've never been here at this hour. I think it's beautiful!" she said softly.

Barrett thought, "I knew you would." He did not speak and he knew he did not need to. He had never felt so completely that everything was as it should be. He had a flash of misty memory; the same feeling that had been his as a very small boy with his face against his mother's shoulder. That phase had been short. She had died just after his tenth birthday and within two years his stepmother, Rita, had begun her rule. Rita had never grown quite accustomed to the chills of the northern climate and had remained heatedly Spanish to the end. She had coquetted or ignored but had never seen him as a child. "I've been lonely," Barrett realized with surprise, "and never even knew it!" He was not lonely now.

"Can't we go again?" Barrett asked as casually as he could.

Though the words were close to his lips Barrett did not speak them. "I love you!" his heart was crying out. "I love you!"

• • •

THE girl was entirely unconscious of all this. She rode beside him, drinking in the beauty of the fading day. Across the bridge in Brooklyn Barrett set his car to a speed in keeping with the sedate hush of the streets. He had always been certain that successful marriages were made after a calm consideration and selection. He had thought often, "If I ever marry it will not be because I have been swept off my feet."

Now he realized that he knew nothing of the mind of the girl who was beside him and yet he wanted—as he'd never wanted anything—to have her by him for the stretch of his life. The conviction had come as suddenly as a lightning flash that suddenly flares to reveal a landscape hidden by darkness.

He had had many interests to which he had given generously of his superb energy. He had thought sometimes, working with his crew and sustained by the hope of discovering a valuable find, that he could never know such absorption in any other way. Now he knew that old hopes had been frail, that all past interests would be paled if he had the chance to care for this girl, to give her everything he had.

"Better go slowly," he warned himself. Aloud he said, "Are you comfortably warm, Miss Stafford?"

"Yes, thank you," she responded in an undertone and not quite steadily. Here beside her was a man who would not lie, who was strong and gentle and kind. As a child she had adored him. Now she was doing it again; willingly, humbly and with all her heart.

"Do you remember giving me a box of candy years ago?" she asked.

"No, I don't."

"Well, one day I was at Aunt Ella's. There were a lot of older people there and you came in and found me sitting on a stool turning the pages—I suppose rather wearily—of 'The Lives of the Saints.' You dropped to the floor beside me to make the most amusing comments on some of the pictures. I'm sure you must have shocked Aunt Ella terribly. Then you went away and half an hour later Higgins appeared with a wonderful box of candy. For me! A pink box with a ribbon on it. I've never forgotten it!"

"I'm glad to hear you say so," he murmured.

"I've never forgotten it," she assured him, "and I never shall!"

• • •

ELINOR sat back against the seat, smiling. The relaxation she felt was so good. Usually people, unless she knew them well (and she knew few people well), made her tense.

They passed a corner of the street where the Thropes lived. "Dear Aunt Bessie," the girl thought, "I must go to see her soon." The tenderness that was within her was spreading over wide area. Perhaps she would never have such an afternoon as this again. Well, she could remember it as she had that rosy box of candy and its donor, a young man who had seen a little girl looking lonely and rather forlorn.

It was a strange mood that had come over her—one she did not understand. Perhaps, she reminded herself, she should be talking. Her companion might be bored by her silence.

She turned toward him. "My aunt and uncle live in Brooklyn," she said. Then she flushed. That must have sounded silly.

But he did not seem to think so. "The Thropes?" he asked.

"Yes."

"I like women of Mrs. Thrope's type," he stated.

"She's really wonderful! I love her. She's been very kind to me."

"They have boys?"

"Yes, three of them. Getting along to college age. You'll see them at Aunt Ella's some day, I presume."

Again Elinor hoped as she had a thousand times that Aunt Ella would put the Thrope boys through college. Uncle Jim never seemed to have any luck. Everything seemed to go bad for him. Sometimes Elinor, in her young way, felt that she couldn't endure it if Aunt Ella didn't give the Thropes the help they so deserved. They were so good, so kind, all of them.

Another bridge. That meant not so many moments before they would reach the yawning, canopied door that would admit her to the apartment building she called home and never felt to be a home.

"I've enjoyed the drive so much!" she said as the roadster nosed its way up Park Avenue.

"Really?" he asked probingly.

"Oh, yes. Really!"

"Then can't we go again?" he asked, as casually as he could.

"If you like."

"I do like!" he assured her almost sharply. "I'd like nothing so much as to be one of your friends."

"Oh," she said, "that is so kind of you!"

He put his hand on hers; he could not help the gesture. Elinor returned the pressure frankly and warmly. Barrett's heart turned over.

DEMANDS MADE FOR RELIEF IN STATE DECREASE

Emergency Commission Reports Gradual Let Up In Requests

Chicago, June 21—(AP3— The trend of the demand for relief from the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, which reached its peak in March, and which turned downward in Cook county in April, has now likewise turned the corner in downstate counties, the Commission revealed today.

Specific figures for May downstate are not yet available, the commission said, but the number of families "showed a slight drop."

The number of families receiving material relief in Cook county since January 1: January, 186,000; February, 192,000; March, 202,000; April, 196,000; May, (estimated 185,000.

Downstate: January, 107,000; February, 115,000; March, 120,000; April, 122,000; May, unavailable. Chicago: March, 130,493; April 127,549; May, 120,734.

Various Factors

Various factors have contributed to the decrease, it was announced, in addition to the re-employment of heads of families. Principal among these is the fact that the relief rolls have been subjected to closer scrutiny and unworth cases dropped and uncooperative cases required to help themselves to a greater degree.

Another is the fact that most of the important Chicago industries have arranged to supply the commission with names and addresses of men reemployed. These are checked against the rolls.

Again the commission has made serious efforts through the courts to recover money unjustly accepted by men misrepresenting themselves as destitute. Some $12,000 has been recovered in 235 cases in this fashion.
